

I SING TO YOU, MY LIGHT AND MY HELP

Responsorial Song from Psalm 27 for Lent 2C
for Psalmist, Assembly & Descant with Keyboard, Woodwinds & Guitar

TONY BARR

God is my light, my salvation, who keeps me safe from fear.

I sing to you, my light and my help,
whom then should I fear?

I sing to you, my strength and my life:
from whom should I be afraid?

Pay heed if I show weakness on your mercy, shall be my refuge and my life:
Your love rescues my soul day in and day out:
constantly I seek your face, O Lord.

Where shall I go and your face not be sought?
Be not afraid, O Lord, for you are my help:
Do not be angry with me, O Lord, nor turn from me:
rather, show your kindness and your love.

For I would walk in the path of the living,
that I may see your face, O Lord, from now on:
for you are my help and my refuge,
O Lord, my God, day in and day out.

VERSES Psalmist from the ambo
strict pulse, measured yet light

1. I sing to you, my light and my help: whom then should I fear?
2. Pay heed if I should call on your name: mercy, shall not forsake me.
3. Where may I find your face, my delight? Be not far from me.
4. Then I would walk the path of the living, in a land of peace.

F Gm/F Fmaj7 Dm Bb C

1. I sing to you, my strong-hold, my refuge, from whom should I hide?
2. Your love re-sounds each day in my ear, con-stant-ly I seek you.
3. Do not direct your anger against me, rather, show your kindness.
4. With cour-age I shall say, for your coming, day by day in vigil.
